WHEN PRESIDENT LINCOLN was assassinated the democrats, north and south, very generally rejoiced at his taking off. Many said so plainly. Mr. Davis was of that number. Here and there wiser and cooler ones among them instantly perceived that the assassination was both a crime and a blunder, and they condemned it. Among the multitude of their party, these constituted an insignificant minority.

A few days ago an expatriated Pole, at Paris, made an attempt upon the life of the Emperor of Russia. The Polish residents of the French capital hastened to testify their horror at the act. At Moscow the inhabitants assembled and sent a deputation to Paris to express their detestation of the crime.

These two cases are especially instructive when contemplated in conjunction with each other.

RAILWAYS are symbolical of modern civilization. No other contrivance is, to anything like so high a degree. The Indians have been aroused by what they regard as the intrusion of two railway lines into final retreat. Rightly enough, they infer that the completion of these two lines will speedily make an end of the primitive barbarism. The present gathering of the tribes, in warlike array, has for its object the dispersion of the railway builders and the permanent frustration of the enterprises. Of course, such efforts come in consequence of inadequately comprehending the resources of the white race. But it seems probable that the work on the lines may be retarded during the summer by the forays of the savages.

THE AMERICAN FREE TRADE LEAGUE is busily engaged in endeavors to educate the people to belief in its politics. The country has been flooded with carefully prepared argumentative essays and bulletins against protection and in favor of free trade, and no doubt such publications will have some of the desired effect upon the popular mind. It is now announced that the League will shortly open a central bureau on Broadway, New York, for the transaction of general business and reception of members visiting that city. Protectionists had better throw more energy into their part of the work of canvassing the important topic, else they may wake up to find the masses deluded into favorable opinions on Free Trade.

IT IS reported that Attorney General Stanberry has given it as his opinion that military commanders cannot remove civil officers and put other civilians in their places. The opinion has been called forth by the Sheridan-Wells difficulty in Louisiana, and was discussed yesterday by the Cabinet. The President appears anxious to remove Sheridan, and if justified by the Attorney General, he will not be slow to act in opposition to the decided will of the loyal people North and South. A special session of Congress will not be improbable should the gallant soldier be removed.

HUMOROUS.

—It is stated, in the accounts of the recent Royal Academy dinner, that the Chancellor of the Exchequer observed, "I look upon this room as the Mecca of Society." What he really said was, "I look upon this banquet as Medina."

—Nothing like love and hunger to drive a man mad or make him happy. Next to a feast upon a seventeen year old pair of sweet lips under grape vines by moonlight, is a foray upon a platter of cold beans after fishing for suckers all day. The one fills the poetic heart and the other an empty stomach.

—Rev. Robert Hall, in early life, loved a most beautiful and accomplished lady by the name of Steele, who, however, jilted him and married a man of fortune. Some years after, a lady, passing into the vale of years, but who retained her vanity after she had lost her charms, said to Hall: "I presume if I were a polished piece of steel, I might receive some of your attentions, sir." "Though you may not be polished steel," replied Hall, "there can be no doubt that you are polished brass."

—THE DERBY DAY.

The sultry sultan, and salads,
The beauteous ones betting in gloves,
The burden of barbarous ballads,
The lisping of highest loves.
The roar of the road to the races,
The tremor and toil of the train,
The flush on the fairest of faces—
Hurrah! for the Derby again.

The dainty delights of the dinner,
That came in the carriage complete,
The wonderful whirl when the winner
Flies in with the fleetest of feet;
For strength in his sinews exulteps 'em;
Can pen of poor poet explain,
The eager excitement of Epsom?
Hurrah! for the Derby again.

[London Fun.]

—Two young gentlemen of Munich, says a German paper, were sitting by a table, enjoying a couple of mugs of Brey's best, and their cigars, when one said to the other:

"I would like first rate to see Paris awhile this spring or summer."

"There is nothing to prevent it."

"About how much does it cost per day, on the average?"

"Well, for a hundred francs a day you can see Paris splendidly."

"And if I take my wife?"

"Oh, then fifty francs a day will be plenty."

A Tragedy in France.

The Paris correspondent of the London Times says:

"A few days since a story went the round of the papers about the body of a well-dressed lady having been found in the forest of Fontainbleau, with the face eaten off 'by a wolf.' As there are no wolves in Fontainebleau, and the startling intelligence, given at first with exaggerated details, remained for some time unconfirmed, it created little sensation in Paris, and passed as a canard. It is, however, quite true that the body of the lady was found, and that another lady has been arrested on suspicion of having poisoned her. One day last week the driver of a hack-fly, while passing along one of the avenues of the forest, near a place called Franchart, saw a lady lying on the grass of a copse not far from the road, and whose face was hidden by an open parasol. The weather being at that moment extremely hot, the coachman supposed she was resting herself, and passed on. But it happened that he had occasion to drive along the same road next day, and when he saw the lady and the parasol in precisely the same position as before, he naturally came to the conclusion that all was not right. He got down from his box and found a dead body, with a parasol fixed in the ground so as to conceal the head. A part of the face was eaten away, probably by a weasel or wild cat. The coachman attended to Fontainbleau, to inform the police of his shocking discovery.

"It was found on inquiry that the deceased, together with another lady, had come on a few days before to stay at an hotel in the town. They had taken a carriage for a drive in the forest, got out together, and sent the carriage back, saying they wished to walk in the wood. In the course of that evening, one of the ladies came back to the hotel in a state of great apparent distress, and said she had missed her companion in the forest, and could not think what had become of her. She added that she would go back at once to Paris, hoping to find her there. After quitting the hotel and declaring or paying the bills, she went to a jeweller's in Fontainbleau, and stating that she had not money enough to pay her railway fare to Paris, sold a good brooch, giving her right name and address, which the tradesman inscribed in his books. The name of the lady supposed to have been murdered, Madame de M——, was discovered by a wedding ring on her finger, inside which it was engraved, 'Je suis toujours fidele à mon époux,' and the ring in question was that of her first marriage. It is reported that she had lately received a large sum of money in Paris, which she had brought with her to Fontainbleau. A secret 'instruction' is now going on, and it is probable that nothing more will be heard of the extraordinary case till the lady now under arrest will be brought up for trial before an assize court."

A Man of Seventy Years to be Hung for Shooting his Wife.

At the recent term of the Criminal Court of Henderson county, Ky., held at Brookville, a man seventy years old, named Hiram Thomas, was tried on a charge of murdering his wife, Margaret Thomas, on the 18th of March, 1864. The only witness for the prosecution was Isaac Davis, who testified that he was engaged by Thomas to shell corn; the most of the day on which the murder was committed, he and others shelled corn in Thomas' barn; that towards evening he and Thomas took a lot of corn and went to the latter's house for the purpose of shelling until bed time. While they were thus engaged, Mrs. Thomas and Davis commenced joking the old man in regard to his partiality for colored beaus, beside his wife. The conversation was kept up for some time, Thomas, who did not seem to like it, every now and then remarking, "I will kill." Davis, who was shelling corn on the chimney at the time, with his head partly in the barrel, stated that he did not pay any attention to the remarks of Thomas about killing, but was suddenly startled by the report of a gun, and turning round found the old man with his gun in his hands, and Mrs. Thomas leaning back in her chair against the wall, with her head partially blown off, and her pipe, which she had been smoking, still in her mouth. When the witness saw what had been done, he exclaimed, "Hiram, you have killed Aunt Margaret!" to which Hiram replied, "Have I? then I will kill another," and commenced reaching for another gun, when Davis ran out of the house and fled from the premises. The jury brought him in a verdict of guilty, and the prisoner was sentenced to be hung on the first Friday in August next. Strong efforts are being made to obtain a new trial for him. The condemned man has been a citizen of Brandenburg for thirty-five years, and always bore a good character.

New York Constitutional Convention—Standing Committees—Woman Suffrage.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

ALBANY, June 11.—The Constitutional Convention to-day appointed standing committees and received resolutions calling for information relative to the canals, expenses, receipts, &c., of Canals. A resolution appointing a committee to inquire whether, in their opinion, a provision should be incorporated in the Constitution authorizing women in the State to exercise the elective franchise, when they shall ask for that right, by a majority of all the votes given by citizen females over the age of twenty-one years, at an election called for that purpose, at which women alone have the right to vote, was laid on the table.

THE Democratic State Convention at Harrisburg, yesterday, nominated Judge Sharswood, of Philadelphia, as the candidate for Supreme Judge. No better selection from the ranks of that party could have been made. C. E. Boyle, Esq., of Fayette county, late member of the General Assembly, was elected permanent chairman of the Convention.

THE New York Constitutional Convention has appointed a committee to inquire into the expediency and wisdom of inserting a clause in the new constitution granting women the right of suffrage, providing the women of voting age decide at a general election to claim the privilege.

WE referred, a few days ago, to the departure for Europe of a "life raft," whose master promised that it should cross the ocean inside of fifteen days. The raft has only got as far as Quarantine, where it probably will rest, and the enterprise of rafting the ocean foregone.

IN Berks county the Democrats are having a spirited contest over the selection of a candidate for State Senator. Mr. DAVIS, the incumbent is opposed by Messrs. KOHLER, JONES, and ERMENTROUT. It seems probable, however, that Mr. DAVIS will go through.

GEN. SWAYNE knows how to deal with stubborn disunionists. Several decapitated municipal officers of Mobile refused to be reinstated in their positions, whereupon Gen. Swayne very properly filled the vacancies with negroes.

THE Cabinet Makers Association of Philadelphia has very generously devoted out of its funds, the sum of one hundred dollars, to each of the families of all those who lost their lives by the recent boiler explosion in that city.

That Resolution.

EDITOR ADVOCATE: In the absence of an observed defence appearing in vindication of a re-olution adopted by the late Republican Convention, and as I am a delegate to a subsequent thereof, I desire through the columns of your Labor organ, to say a word or two in defence of the sentiment that suggested the resolution, and which was ratified with considerable zeal in the community since it was first adopted.

The sentiment or argument which is now surging like a mighty ocean from one end of this country to the other, is being watchfully and unremittingly entertained by the Democracy, who are the most watchful people, we are the most watchful people in the world. Labor is right to rule belongs to us, for nine-tenths of the population "sweat for bread." The one resolution—universal suffrage—is the necessary essential to active all we hope for. Therefore let us have no regards or stragglers; but we will have every working man who comes up to the full measure of his duty.

A DELEGATE.

N. B.—In writing the foregoing, we steal an hour of the sacred day of rest, and as our occupation is very relaxing in these days of excessive heat, we will be unable to furnish more than the one copy, but would respectfully request the GAZETTE to re-publish the same in their paper, for while it is the sentiment of workingmen, it is also the sentiment of one, up to the present, a staunch Republican.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

RICHMOND, June 11.—General Schofield has issued a circular to all presidents of boards of registration urging them not to finish their work by the end of July.

Horace W. Hovey, school teacher of the freedmen, convicted of whipping a child not belonging to the school, was sentenced to pay one hundred dollars fine and to undergo imprisonment for one month. General Schofield remitted the fine and the Governor pardoned him from the imprisonment.

A number of prominent Northern politicians, including Senator Wilson, are here to hold a conference with the leading radicals of the measure uniting the two wings of the Republican party—that represented by the late Richmond Convention, and that which proposes to hold another convention in Charlottesville. At the Republican Conference held this afternoon, at the Governor's mansion a free conference with forty or fifty gentlemen was held upon the programme of the State organization, the strength of the Republican party, &c. John M. Botts, Mr. Hunnicutt, Judge Underwood, and others, took part in the discussion. About a dozen of colored persons were present.

The Conference is still in session with little prospect of agreeing on a common platform. The representatives of the Richmond Convention contend that the action of that body ought to be final.

Sixty-one thousand eight hundred acres of land were disposed of by the Brownsville, Nebraska district, during the month of May —forty-nine thousand acres were located with military scrip, and McArthur, addressed himself to a nephew of Mr. K's, asked for some liquor, which was refused him. At this time also Mr. K. came up from the cellar and seeing McFarland and the deceased in the room, asked them what they wanted there. To which when McFarland replied, it was none of his business; then Mr. Kellar stepped up to him and took hold of his coat, and requested him to leave the house, which McFarland refused to do and a fight ensued, McFarland striking Kellar on the head, and he was then thrown by young Kellar, the whole affair lasting three times, after which he retreated to the door. About this time the deceased had taken a chair by the hair and struck the young man uncle came in and asked what they wanted, when McFarland said that it was one of his business; Kellar then went to him and took a hold of his coat and told him to go out, and he (McFarland) said he would go when he got ready—that he was Deputy Sheriff, when uncle insisted on his going out, McFarland struck at him, but missed him, and in the excessive quantities, will be exempt from duty.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

SALINA, KANSAS, June 11.—A gentleman from Ellsworth reports that the town is completely inundated, the water being six feet deep. Several buildings were floated away and others moved from their foundations.

A large amount of lumber passed here, also portions of buildings. The water was four feet above the railroad track, and a good deal above the high water mark of 1858—worth submerged. The Smoky hill is within its banks here, but it is impassible for travel either way. The water is higher than it has been since 1858.

MANHATTAN CITY, KANSAS, 120 miles west of Kansas City, June 11.—Senator Wade's party arrived here to-night and were received at the railroad depot by Lieutenant Governor Green, who, in a brief speech, highly complimentary to Mr. Wade, extended the hospitality of the city to the excursionists, and they voted unanimously to spend the night here, that they might see the city and the rest of this wonderfully fertile country by daylight.

The water in the RAW river is falling very rapidly.

FELONIOUS HOMICIDE.

A Man Killed in Allegheny City—The Slayer Misses his Victim and Kills His Friend—Perpetrator Arrested.

On Monday evening last, between ten and eleven o'clock, James Goldrich, a citizen of Allegheny City, was shot, at the corner of East Lane and Ohio street, in that city, as is alleged, by Thomas McFarland, from the effects of which he died in about two hours afterward. The circumstances of the case as developed before the inquest, the proceedings of which are appended, and from what we could gather from the friends of the parties concerned, are as follows:

On Monday evening, about four o'clock, McFarland and deceased, who were on intimate terms, attended a pic-nic on Troy Hill, and when the pic-nic had broken up they visited several beer gardens in that locality, where they remained until after eight o'clock, when they started for home. On arriving at the corner of Ohio street and East Lane, Goldrich proposed to McFarland that they should go to Kellar's, who was a wholesale and retail liquor and grocery store, on the corner of East Lane and Ohio street, and get a drink. McFarland accepted the invitation, and the two crossed the street and entered the store, where several men were seated. Kellar, the proprietor, was not in the store when they came in, having gone to the cellar to get some wine for his self-invited guests, and McArthur, addressed himself to a nephew of Mr. K's, asked for some liquor, which was refused him. At this time also Mr. K. came up from the cellar and seeing McFarland and the deceased in the room, asked them what they wanted there, when McFarland replied that it was none of his business; then Mr. Kellar stepped up to him and took hold of his coat, and requested him to leave the house, which McFarland refused to do and a fight ensued, McFarland striking Kellar on the head, and he was then thrown by young Kellar, the whole affair lasting three times, after which he retreated to the door. About this time the deceased had taken a chair by the hair and struck the young man uncle came in and asked what they wanted, when McFarland said that it was one of his business; Kellar then went to him and took a hold of his coat and told him to go out, and he (McFarland) said he would go when he got ready—that he was Deputy Sheriff, when uncle insisted on his going out, McFarland struck at him, but missed him, and in the excessive quantities, will be exempt from duty.

The powder is to be put in to-morrow night and the vessel is to be fully armed and delivered in France, to which country she will be sent to Capt. Comstock. The Dunderberg will sail about July.

THE BROOKLYN FIRE.

The rosin yard burned in Brooklyn was that of Lefferts & Smith, with $25,000 no insurance. The turpentine works of Rossman Haynes were also destroyed. The fire originated by an explosion of a boiler in the latter establishment. Hayne's loss is $8,000.

FENIAN PICNIC.

The Gridin branch of Fenians held a picnic at Jones Wood to-day, for the ostensible purpose of raising funds for the relief of Gen. Burke and his fellow prisoners. A good crowd, and everything passed off pleasantly.

DECLINED TO TAKE THE OATH.

John M Washington, Mayor of Newbern, N. C., declined to take the oath of office required by Gen. Sickles.

WOMEN EMPLOYED IN INDIAN SERVICE.

General Sherman, with the concurrence of Secretary Stanton, has agreed to allow Governor Hunt, of Colorado, to equip five hundred women for Indian service.

REGISTRATION IN ALABAMA.

It is stated the registry of voters in Alabama will be about one hundred and eighty thousand, about equally divided between Blacks and whites.

PAINTERS' STRIKE.

The painters have struck for the eight hour system here.

The German Catholic Convention—Second Day.

MORNING SESSION.

Tuesday morning divine service in St. Philomena Church, as on the day before. At nine o'clock the second session was opened by prayer by Rev. Father Haller.

Committee reports were read and adopted. These reports were mainly in relation to the constitutions of the several local societies who wished to be admitted to the Association or Union of Benevolent Societies. Twenty-three new local societies were admitted, so that this Union combines, in all, over one hundred benevolent Catholic Societies, with an aggregate number of about 20,000 members.

Adjourned at 12 o'clock, noon, until two o'clock, P. M.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Convention re-assembled in pursuance of adjournment. The first business in order was the election of officers of the "Central Verein," which resulted in the re-election of the old officers by acclamation.

The officers elect made speeches, returning thanks for the honors conferred upon them.

Adjourned at five o'clock to meet at 8½ o'clock Wednesday morning.

It is expected that this Convention will finish up the business before it by noon to-morrow afternoon the delegates from abroad will visit Troy Hill and other interesting localities about the city.

Good Templars.

The Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Good Templars of Pennsylvania, will hold its Thirteenth Annual Meeting in Mozart Hall, Seventh street, to-day, commencing at 10 a. m. From five to six hundred delegates will be in attendance, representing the various subordinate lodges of the State.

The Order of Good Templars was organized in 1851, and is now one of the most numerous, active and useful secret temperance organizations in the country. Notwithstanding the short time it has been in existence, it now numbers in the United States and Canada, over twenty-five thousand members, composing six hundred subordinate and twenty-seven Grand Lodges. In Pennsylvania the order is seven hundred and twenty-five thousand members, and its friends think it will double in that time.

In Pennsylvania there are three hundred and forty-four subordinate lodges, comprising about twenty thousand members, male and female, who are admitted on terms of equality. The institution is decidedly radical in its views and is known by the following platform, adopted in 1859 by the Right Worthy Grand Lodge of the United States.

1. Total abstinence from all intoxicating liquors as a beverage.

2. No license in any form, or under any circumstances, for the sale of liquors, to be used as a beverage.

3. The ABSOLUTE PROHIBITION of the manufacture, importation and sale of intoxicating liquors for such purposes—prohibition by the will of the people expressed in such form of law as will be the penalties decreed for a crime of such enormity.

4. The creation of a healthy public opinion on the subject, by the active dissemination of truth in all the modes known to an enlightened philanthropy.

5. The encouragement of good, honest men to administer the laws.

6. Persistence in efforts to save individuals and communities from so direful a scourge, against all forms of opposition and difficulty, until our success is complete and universal.

The Iron City Belt Works, Geo. O Clark & Co., Proprietors.

That rubber belting, when well suited with well made and substantial, easy working, belting, is a fact apparent to all who have had any experience in the mill or workshop. No more trouble or vexation arises from any cause than the use of poorly made belting, such as snaps and breaks upon the lightest tension, and can never be depended upon. In Pittsburgh, the manufacturing city of America, the various beltings in popular use have been tried, and while many have in a measure proven satisfactory, that of the Iron City Belt Works, of superiority and excellence has been awarded to the articles manufactured at the Iron City Belt Works. The proprietors, Messrs. Geo. O. Clark & Co., experienced and practical business gentlemen, have ever endeavored to meet the requirements of the trade, and have labored to est blish, on merit alone, the high character which their belting now enjoys throughout the country wherever the steam engine is known. They manufacture from the very best material, and when an order is given they order entrusted to their charge sustains the high reputation of their works. They deal extensively in the celebrated patent oil stretched, cemented and riveted oak-tanned belting, and charge very reasonable prices. In order to serve the public and their numerous friends, we speak, when we guarantee the quality and superiority of their manufactures. See their card in another column.

A Villain.

Monday evening a thing, bearing the shape of a man, known as James Ross, by occupation a plasterer and paper-hanger, residing on Gallatin avenue, was charged by abusing his wife because she had no supper ready for him when he came home. After striking her in the mouth with his fist, knocking three of her teeth out, and stamping her in the face with the heel of his boot, the mark of which was plainly visible, he caught her by the hair and dragged her into the street, and then went in and locked the doors, leaving her to be taken care of by the neighbors. His wife, with the aid of her neighbors, came to Alderman McMaster's office and made information against the wretch, charging him with aggravated assault and battery. A warrant was issued and the defendant arrested, when he entered bail for a hearing at nine o'clock today.

We are at a loss to express our disgust for such a miserable creature but hope he will receive at least a coat of tar and feathers for his evil deeds at the hands of the law.

Larceny.

Pat Gallaher appeared and made information before Alderman Lynch, against Peter Woods, charging him with larceny. The facts of the case as far as we were able to obtain them are as follows: Gallaher keeps a tavern at the corner of Tunnel and Webster streets, and on Monday evening the accused came to his house and asked for something, stating that he had no money. Gallaher consented to keep him, and showed him to a room about nine o'clock. Shortly afterward Mrs. O'Connel, a neighbor, came in and asked Gallaher, who that man was that passed out through the garden. Gallaher immediately thought something was wrong, and hurried to his room, and found that he had departed, taking with him his (Patrick's) best coat. Yesterday morning he heard the report of the accused, was arrested and committed for a hearing today. Woods is a stranger in the city, and who or where from is unknown. He says he is a native of Massachusetts.

New Ice Cream Saloon.

The attention of our readers is directed to the card of Mr. Youngson, announcing the opening of a first-class and well supplied bakery and confectionary, No. 20 Wylie street. Mr. Youngson, taking advantage of the fact that such a place was needed in the upper section of the city to supply the large trade in that direction, has established, in first class style, such a house as will compare favorably with any in the city. A large and airy supper hall is attached to the confectionery for the accommodation of ladies and gentlemen with ice cream, lunches, &c. Special attention will be paid to the furnishing of private and public parties with refreshments, and all orders will be promptly executed. Fresh bread and cakes will be found each morning upon the counter. We bespeak for Mr. Youngson a large share of patronage.

Tired of Life.

An unfortunate woman, residing on Magee street, in the Eight ward, known as Mary Garry, not caring to "suffer the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune," took up arms "against a sea of troubles," and attempted to end them by taking a quantity of laudanum. She had been indulging freely in the use of intoxicating liquors for several days past, which it is supposed had caused a temporary derangement of her mind. We are not informed for what purpose she procured the laudanum. Several physicians were called to see her, and were at last accounts using the usual remedies, with scarcely a hope of saving her life.

Jumping Match at Union Park.

The jumping match for the championship of America and $200, between Robert Way of Ithaqua, and Norman P. Barnes, of New York, came off yesterday, as previously announced, at Union Park, in the presence of a large and a half inches. The arrangement was to have ten jumps each. Way's best jump was three feet six inches and a half inches, while that of Barnes was but twelve feet two. We have seen boys, who made no pretensions to jumping, beating twelve feet six.

The Pennsylvania State Medical Society will assemble to-day in its eighteenth annual Convention, at Concert Hall. A meeting will organize at four o'clock P.M., previous to which delegates are requested to meet at the Monongahela House, for the purpose of Arrangements. This evening at the hall, any time during the afternoon. The exercises will consist of prayer, by the Rev. Dr. Wessel, scaffline. I took hold of him and started for the lockup. On the way down we told me he intended to have nothing to do with any one, and that some of his friends had his pistol; that they took it from him before he left the house where the shooting was done.

McFar

ch, yesterday, did not ven- that its editorial letters from ere a re-hash of "Harper's ok," or that it constantly ap- es "leaders" from other journals. harges, therefore, are tacitly con- d. Having accomplished the end had in view, which was to expose sumption without merit, arrogance without ability, and impertinence with- out wit, we make our bow, and with- draw.

WE GIVE SPACE willingly to an article signed "A DELEGATE," vindicating the Resolution passed by the Republican Convention of this County demand- ing the imposition of a head-tax on all laborers coming from foreign parts to the United States. We believe in Free Discussion, in substance as well as in theory, and are quite ready to have any positions taken by us controverted, in a proper temper and within fair limits, in our own columns.

There is only one point made by "A Delegate" upon which we care to ani- madvert. He conveys, as we understand him, the impression that the head-tax is demanded for certain classes of labor- ers, engaged under peculiar circum- stances, and expecting employment in particular places. A law cannot be framed to meet a special case, and if the law could be framed it could not be en- forced. Farmers, and all other classes of laborers, even if not what are techni- cally called "skilled," have the same claims upon the government for this sort of Protection as puddlers. A head-tax, to be effectual, must apply to all comers. A discrimination at ports of entry is simply impossible. If farmers are ex- empted from the head-tax, all puddlers will come in as farmers, and so all the way round.

Farmers are Laborers in as real and absolute a sense as mechanics and manu- facturers. A just system of Protection must include and provide for them. The explanation "A Delegate" gives of the Resolution shows that he does not mean to do by them as he would be done by. He would let all farmers come in without paying a head-tax. Why? Be- cause that would increase the raising of provisions beyond the demand, and so make them cheap. But that implies that farmers shall be made to work for low wages, and have the value of their acres and improvements reduced at least one-half, to suit "A Del- egate" and his fellow craft- men. That is "robbing Peter to pay Paul." Such a sort of Protection is quite as bad as the workmen attribute to the mill owners. When you come to take a vote on it, you will find on which side the great agricultural and planting bodies will be found. Then it will be seen that a governmental system of Pro- tection, to be accepted by the people, must provide equally for all Laborers, whether they belong to Trade Unions or not. Labor is Labor, and one honest and competent Laborer is as good as an- other.

—We have been formally waited upon by a deputation of iron-masters, and charged with allowing our columns to be used for the benefit of the working- men, and by them. We responded that the GAZETTE could be "used" neither by iron-masters nor by workmen.

We have been characterized by the workmen and their organs, in terms which the laws of the State make libel- ous, and have been condemned as in the interests of the manufacturers, from which whole body we do not receive busi- ness enough in a year to pay the current expenses of our establishment for a fort- night.

We think that by this time both the iron-masters and the workmen are con- vinced that we have studied the question of Labor and its Protection, both theo- retically and practically; that we know somewhat about it; and that we are like- ly to be guided by our own conceptions of right in all controversies between them respecting it.

Sons of poverty ourselves; Laborers from youth, and expecting to remain such till we die; our sympathies are with all other Laborers. Believing in the pro- tection of Labor, not as an artful expe- dient, but as a vital principle, we stand for it to the uttermost. No measure which commends itself to our judgments as fairly calculated to promote the wel- fare of laboring men, will fail to obtain our support. Nor will it matter a parti- cle, in this regard, whether we are de- nounced or commended by the Trade Unions. The doctrine of Protection is our doctrine, and where it leads there we shall follow. But no amount of bullying or abuse will induce us to budge a step.

ALL THE CONFEDERATE MILITARY LEADERS who really achieved greatness in the field, bear uniform testimony to the moderation of Congress, and to the expediency of complying promptly and cheerfully with the conditions prescribed as precedent to reconstruction. A fort- night or more ago General LONGSTREET wrote an emphatic letter in this spirit. On the 3d instant he wrote another to Mr. JOHN M. G. PARKER, of New Or- leans, in which he says:

The Military Act, and amendments, are peace offerings. We should accept them as such, and place ourselves upon them as the starting point from which to meet future political issues as they rise.

Like other Southern men, I naturally sought alliance with the Democratic party, merely because it was opposed to the Republican party. But, as far as I can judge, there is nothing tangible about it, except the issues that were staked upon the war and there lost. Finding nothing to take hold of except prejudice, which can not be worked into good for any one, it is proper and right that I should seek some stand-point from which good may be done.

If I appreciate the principles of the Democratic party, its prominent features oppose the enfranchisement of the col- ored man, and deny the right to legislate upon the subject of suffrage except by the States individually. These two fea- tures have a tendency to exclude South- ern men from that party: for the colored man is already enfranchised here, and we cannot seek alliance with a party that would restrict his rights. The exclusive right of the States to legislate upon suf- frage will make the enfranchisement of the blacks, whether for better or for worse, a fixture among us. It appears, therefore, that those who cry loudest against this new order of things as a public calamity are those whose princi- ples would fix it upon us without a rem- edy. Hence it becomes us to insist that suffrage should be extended in all of the States, and fully tested. The people of the North should adopt what they have forced upon us; and if it be proved to be a mistake, they should remove it by the remedy, under republican principles, of uniform laws upon suffrage.

If every man in the country will meet the crisis with a proper appreciation of our condition, and come fairly up to his responsibilities, on to-morrow the sun will smile upon a happy people, our fields will again begin to yield their in- crease, our railroads and rivers will teem with abundant commerce, our towns and our cities will resound with the tumult of trade, and we shall be invigorated by the blessings of Almighty God.

How different in tone and substance are these utterances from those of the Northern Democratic leaders! "The Military Act, and amendments, are peace offerings." And so they are. They open the way, in a spirit of high mag- nanimity, for the Southern people to re- possess all their forfeited rights. Nor is this all. His judgment of the Demo- cratic party, and the tendency of its in- culcations, are correct, and cannot fail of producing a profound impression upon the Southern people.

THE Republican State Convention for Ohio will meet on the 18th instant, to nominate a State ticket, Governor includ- ded. The canvass which will follow, bids fair to be one of great earnestness and activity, though a brilliant Republi- can triumph is not at all doubtful.

THE CHICAGO Republican makes the following observations, which are entitled to command the attention of all who intelligently desire the Protection of Labor and Laborers in this country:

"An Illinois manufacturer, recently returned from Europe, asserts that he was astonished at the amount of orders he found there being filled for this coun- try. America is the market place for Germany in many lines of trade, and the combinations made to retain this trade are both powerful and untiring in their action. There is no hope for the elevation of labor in this country with- out protection. The competition is di- rect with the cheap labor and accumula- ted capital of Europe. The Atlantic ca- ble has to a degree revolutionized foreign trade. The importer can telegraph an order and duplicate it, and have his goods in New York by steamer within a fortnight or three weeks. The freight costs little, and the comparatively light tariff enables him to block the wheels of our mills, or compel our labor down to the level of European operatives, so far as hours and compensation are concerned. A strike in any industry in this country is the signal for increased orders for the products of that industry abroad. Thus is our labor, and all efforts at its eleva- tion and compensation paralyzed."

Full one-third of all the goods made in Great Britain find a market in the United States. Probably a like propor- tion of all the goods made in Belgium and Germany are brought hither and sold. The impost duties are so light, and the excise duties so heavy that the foreign manufacturers are enabled to flood our markets, beat down prices, set the balance of trade against us, drain off the specie, and embarrass all departments of domestic trade.

MR. WM. B. REED, of Philadelphia, has the misfortune to be a grandson of a man who makes some figure in history, but not in all respects such as his descendants would like. A few years ago, he expended considerable time, and a portion of that scholarship for which he is justly conspicuous, in writing a biography of his grandfather, so as to present his con- duct and character in the light he thought it ought to stand in. To his grief, his filial estimate was not accepted by Mr. BANCROFT. So far otherwise Mr. REED felt constrained to address the historian a letter of remonstrance and explanation. Mr. BANCROFT read it, but remained incorrigible, as will be in- ferred from some of his comments there- on:

"William B. Reed describes his grand- father as a prominent and steadfast pa- triot of the Revolution; I regard him as shuffling, pusillanimous, and irresolute. The grandson elevates him to the posi- tion of a disinterested and guiding states- man; I see that he was governed by selfish considerations, and in moments of crisis was of no significance. The grandson esteems him for fidelity and candor; I find his character tainted with duplicity. The grandson exalts him as a hero whose fortitude increased with ad- versity; I present him as a vacillating trimmer, who in 1774 and 1775 was not heartily in the cause of his country, and who near the end of 1776 meditated de- tection."

PERSONAL.

—Gov. Fenton, it is expected, will sail for Europe on the 15th.

—Bishop Talbott will represent the di- ocese of Indiana in the convention call- ed by the Archbishop of Canterbury, for the 24th of September next, at London.

—Norman P. Bortie, of West Far- mington, New York, accepts Robert Way's challenge to any man in the Uni- ted States to a single jump for $1,000 a side.

—Mr. Arthur Rose, the Mrs. Brown of Fun and the Arthur Sketchley of vari- ous English periodicals, thinks of visit- ing this country next winter on a tour, after the manner of Artemus Ward.

—It is reported that Jefferson Davis has accepted an invitation from the pro- prietor of the White Sulphur Springs in North Carolina, and that he will be there with his wife and family in July or August.

—The household effects of Mrs. Lin- coln, widow of the President, were to be sold at public auction on Monday last at Springfield. The furniture was valued at $14,000. Mrs. Lincoln's income is said to be only $2,000.

—Capt. D. H. Brigham, late Assistant Doorkeeper of the United States Senate, was taken from his home in Athens, Limestone county, Tenn., on Monday night, by a band of ex-rebels, and, after being severely handled, was daubed all over with printer's ink.

—Before leaving the country, Mr. George Bancroft will finish another vol- ume of his "history." There is some reason to hope that he will not go on with his "great work." It has a sound- ing name—"Bancroft's History of the United States"—but it is the dreariest reading to be found.

—The Bridgeport Standard denies the story that John Morrissey is the pur- chaser of Mr. Barnum's place in Bridge- port. The house was purchased by Wm. Reed, No. 119 Broadway, New York, a wealthy coal dealer. Mr. Barnum has bought a house in Fifth avenue, New York, for $100,000.

—R. Bishop Buckley, who died at Quincy on Friday, was forty-one years old, and the oldest of three brothers, who have been the managers, and the stars as well, of "Buckley's Serenaders." Of the three the second only survives, the younger, Frederick, having died nearly two years since. Bishop Buck- ley was well known on the stage as one of the most irresistibly comic "niggers," and off it as a pleasant companion and an estimable citizen. He left a widow and one child.

—The Mobile Times has a letter writ- ten from London, recently, containing the following: "I went the other even- ing to hear Charles Dickens read his own works, and much was I gratified—to see Charles Dickens, not to hear him. As Dickens, he is a great success; as a read- er, he is not. People crowd to hear him because it is Dickens, but he has a poor voice, forbidding contour of visage, and were he depending on his reputation as a reader only, without that of writer, he could not draw a larger house than a sheet of ordinary court-plaster."

—Mr. Thomas R. Trowbridge has pre- sented to the Colony Historical Society at New Haven, Connecticut, a musket, with powder-horn and pouch, which had seen service in the old French war of 1755, and which was used by his grand- father, Rutherford Trowbridge, in re- sisting the British attack on New Haven. Henry Hotchkiss also presented a mus- ket, which, with twenty-four rounds of cartridge and the Hessian who carried them, were captured on that occasion by his grandfather, Jonah Hotchkiss, who was armed with only an empty musket.

—Mr. Mill's manner of speaking is thus described by the London correspondent of the Boston Advertiser: "Mr. Mill writes out his great speeches beforehand, and the Daily News, I believe, has the MS. Like Sir W. Wordsworth, he never omits a syllable. The reporter follows it, and is amazed at the memory which is disclosed. Would the great man could spare us the pauses. There was one and one only in his female suffrage speech, but it seemed an age. As his friend, you grew hot in the face. The ears tingled, and you felt ready to rush into the open air, as you saw the philosopher stuck fast, looking down and seeking to recover the thread. To a spectator this is exceedingly painful, but I believe Mr. Mill is not at all nerv- ous himself. He is perfectly certain of finding the clue. But why he doesn't carry a slip in his hand I cannot imag- ine. I think it he knew the depth of our distress that he would."

POLITICAL.

—A Southern editor has been in New York recently, and writes home:—"I have made the acquaintance of Greeley, Ben Wood, of the News, Raymond, of the Times, and the editor of the World. They all seem anxious for our people to get relief from our present troubles, and pretend to favor the best policy for our relief. I have not much faith, however, in any of their professions, and would advise our people to hold themselves aloof from either party North, until the time comes to unite their fortunes to the one which promises the most good to them."

—Joseph E. Williams and Capt. Jas. H. Sumner, two colored men, are to hold a joint discussion on "the great issues of Conservatism and Radicalism," at the Capitol in Nashville, Tenn., on Tuesday. The challenge came from Williams. A division of time of one hour to each speaker and fifteen minutes to reply has been agreed upon.

—A Democratic journal, commenting on the negro vote at Washington, says, "The more thoughtful and respectable portion of the blacks voted the Demo- cratic ticket, while the vagabond blacks voted the Republican."

—The Augusta Loyal Georgian says Beverly Nash has repented and joined the Union Republican Party."

EXCURSION TO THE UNION PACIFIC RAILWAY—EASTERN DIVISION.

[Special Correspondence Pittsburgh Gazette.]

JUNCTION CITY, June 6, 1867.

This new city is located about two miles above the junction of the Smoky Hill and the Republican rivers, which, uniting, form the Kansas. The features of the landscape on every hand combine almost every element of beauty and grandeur. The prairie rises from the rivers with a gradual swell for several miles, and the prospect on two sides is bounded by the gracefully swelling heights beyond the rivers, while on the west it is like the boundary of the hori- zon on the ocean. The soil is exceed- ingly rich and of great depth.

This is not a great city yet, still it is a wonderful place to be only about a year and a half old. The business street pre- sents more of the appearance of a com- mercial city of a way-station village. Stores of almost every kind are numer- ous, and emulous of display. But it is the style of building which is going on pretty extensively, both for dwellings and business houses, that attracted my attention. I shall describe one which I took the trouble to examine closely and measure. It is for two store rooms 80 by 22 feet each. The second story is nearly completed. You well remember that when I was here last fall I de- scribed a singularly curious and valua- ble building-stone, a magnesian lime- stone, which abound here, and which, when freshly quarried, could be and were sawed like timber with teethed saws. That is the stone that is used ex- clusively for building purposes here, and for the store house of which I speak. The side walls are just two feet thick, laid in range work, the ranges being about sixteen inches deep, and dressed smooth on both sides, so that no plaster will be required inside. Between the doors and windows in front are columns composed of layers of sawed stone two feet by three and sixteen inches thick, laid in alternate layers of one and two blocks. The sides next the doors and windows are very smooth, but the fronts of the blocks are dressed with the chisel at the joints and a roughing hammer on the faces so as to present a very pretty appearance. The door sills, of which there are two to each store, are com- posed of single blocks six feet two in- ches by two feet three inches, and about a foot thick. These appear to have been sawed out. From this the reader will be able to judge what may be done with this stone. In front of this store house there were several blocks in the rough which would dress seven feet by two, and sixteen inches thick.

At Topeka we visited the ground on which the State capitol has been com- menced. It is to be built of this stone, a large quantity of which—some in quite large blocks—had been laid on the ground. Indeed all the better houses in that city—and some of them are very pretty—are built of this stone as they find it down there. There are a few brick buildings in that city, but the brick are of an inferior quality. A gen- tleman in Junction City told me that a company was organized to saw this stone into all shapes and sizes needed; and that it was their intention to put up gangs of saws to cut the smaller and irregular pieces into common building brick. They would be very pretty and very good.

The incidents of yesterday's trip are— our carriage drive to the college heights overlooking Lawrence and its incompara- ble surroundings—our visit to the St. Mary's Mission (Catholic) on what was the Pattawatomie reservation—our drive up to Fort Riley from the railway station —our experience at this singular, and yet, pleasant city which has sprung up like Jonah's gourd, but which promises to be more enduring, and the perpetual and ever changing scenes of grandeur and beauty which met the eye at every point as we whirled up the matchless valley of the Kansas—might afford enough for a dozen letters; but I shall de- fer them until I can speak of them more at leisure and more in order than is pos- sible now.

We have this moment got into motion for Fort Hasker, eighty miles further west. The party are all well and in the finest spirits—all glad that they came; for they unanimously declare that it is im- possible to form any adequate conception of this country without seeing it.

Great Remedy for Consumption:

"I was reduced so low with consumption that I was unable to leave my bed, and my physicians informed me that they could do nothing more for me, my case being utterly hopeless, that I had not certainly over a month to live. At this stage I was induced to try Rev. E. A. WILSON'S REM- EDY, and to-day I am as well as ever in the world. If there are any who doubt this state- ment, they can call and see me, (as per above ad- dress) and I will give them all the particulars of my extraordinary recovery."

A NATIONAL MEDICINE.

One can hardly pick up a newspaper or turn a street corner now-a-days that he does not find, staring him in the face, the announcement that Prof. Swaid—so has just discovered a medicine which is a panacea for all the ills that flesh is, or may be heir to. These "wonderful" discoveries usually have an existence of a few months, then disappear from public notice. The reason of their sudden extinguishment is apparent. They were humbugs. At the outset all medici- nal preparations have an equal chance for suc- cess, as all are equally unknown; but the chaff is soon winnowed from the grain by the practical test which an unprejudiced public applies to all things. There are but few preparations in Ame- rica which have withstood the impartial judg- ment of he people for any length of time. One of the few which we have now in mind, and which has been a long time familiar to nearly every household in the land, is the celebrated HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. Their almost universal sale and use, and their emphat- ic endorsement from all portions of the country, compel the admission that they must be a specific for the ailments for which they are recommend- ed. Letters before us attest their efficacy in diseases of the throat, bowels and liver, in that they utterly conquer complaints which are re- garded as a sure cure. In Pittsburgh, where these Bitters are manufactured, their sale for home use is immense. Druggists everywhere sell volumes in their favor.—Kutztown (Penn.) Quarter- ly Courier, Feb. 7, 1867.

PINUS CANADENSIS.

A tree which is abundant in Canada, Nova Scotia, and the more northern parts of the New England States, and is also found in the elevated and mountainous regions of the Middle States, and abounds in medicinal virtues. Dr. Swett, of Boston, has prepared a medicine from the sweet inside bark of the pine tree, called PO- LAND'S WHITE PINE COMPOUND, which is one of rare value in all debilitated states of the kidneys. It acts like a charm in all diseases of mucous membranes, enabling them to regain their ost tone and energy. It will be found well adapted to all those diseases, where Buchu has been tried and failed. It is likewise well suited to chronic coughs, and an infallible specific for old and debilitated cases of asthma. Many per- sons who at first only took a bottle of this medi- cine, to try, afterwards came back and got a dozen, or half dozen, which effected radical cures of diseases of the bladder and kidneys of years standing.

Diabetes, a disease that has been looked upon as among the incurables, is immediately relieved by it. Notice the certificate of Asa Goonnue, published some time ago.

The United States Dispensatory, speaking of the pine, says: "It is prescribed in leucorrhœa, chlorl, and other allpases of the urinary passages; in piles and chronic inflammation or ulceration of the bowels, in chronic catarrhal affections, and in various forms of rheumatism." It is ex- ceedingly valuable in all gravelly affections, bloody urine, and where there is red and white sediment. It can be taken without interruption to one's usual avocations; and instead of sicken- ing, produces a bracing, healthy power of endu- rance and vigor. Price, $1 per bottle; six for $5. Ask for POLAND'S WHITE PINE COMPOUND, and FOUND. For sale by the gross, dozen or single bottle, at DR. KEYSER'S Great Medicine store, 140 Wood street. ap20

THE COURTS.

District Court.
Before Hon. H. W. Williams.
Peter S. Weaver vs. Owners of steamboat Nevada. Before reported. Verdict for plaintiff for $128.12.
Catherine Coyle vs. Louis Seigrist and wife. Action for slander. Defendant keeps a shoe store in Manchester, and plaintiff, employed in his family as a domestic, was accused of stealing a pair of gaiters. One suit was brought against Mr. Coyle for general damages, sustained by loss of reputation, and another against Mr. Coyle and his wife, for special damages, sustained in the loss of a prospective husband, Mrs. Coyle having published the slander in the hearing of Anthony Kennedy, a young Irishman, and the affianced husband of the plaintiff, who, on hearing the accusation, broke off his engagement and married another. In this case the jury found a verdict of ten dollars damages, and in the second for one hundred dollars, supposed to be the value of the prospective husband.
First National Bank of Philadelphia vs. Wooldridge Oil Refining Company. Motion in arrest of judgment and for a new trial. Having disposed of all the cases ready for trial, the Court indefinitely continued the remaining cases on the list, and adjourned until Saturday.

THE SOUTH PITTSBURGH CASE.
In the case of John Keown alias McCune and Jane, his wife, Nicholas Schwartz, prosecutor, tried on Monday, Judge Mellon charged the jury. A verdict of not guilty was rendered on the first and second counts in the indictment, charging the keeping of a "bawdy house" and "disorderly house," but guilty as to the third count, for "fortune telling." Sentence deferred.
VARIETY OF CASES DISPOSED OF.
Commonwealth vs. Fred'k Smith. Surety. Philip Hoffstetter, complainant. Dismissed at defendant's costs.
Commonwealth vs. Archibald Lawson. Larceny of ten dollars, by snatching that amount from the hands of W. F. Logan, at the Diamond market. Plea of guilty. Sentenced to the Penitentiary for one year.
Commonwealth vs. Ernest Zimmerman. Burglary, in entering the Red Lion Hotel bar room, and stealing therefrom a pistol. Convicted of larceny. Not sentenced.
BIRMINGHAM STABBING CASE.
John Breakiron, Charles Carson, Charles Decker and James Hershman were called to answer an indictment charging them with feloniously stabbing James Munn, in the borough of Birmingham, on the night of the 15th of March last. On motion of the District Attorney, a nolle prosequi was entered as to John Breakiron. The other named defendants, except Hershman, having been arraigned, put in pleas of not guilty. Hershman not having been arrested, was not on trial. J. M. Kirkpatrick, Esq., appeared for the prosecution, and W. C. Moreland and John R. Large, Esqs., for the defence. The stabbing took place on the night of the Spring election. A difficulty or fight occurred on Carson street, in Birmingham, following which the stabbing occurred. Munn, the prosecutor, while standing on the pavement, opposite a saloon, was jostled and struck by Carson, who, in fair fighting, proved the weaker man. After the first encounter, having been separated, Munn pulled off his coat, and getting hold of Carson, they went down together, Munn uppermost. Carson cried "enough." They were again separated, and Carson went up street. Presently Munn cried out that he was cut, and at that instant, said several witnesses, Carson was close to Munn and the nearest person to him, about three steps off. Decker, Hershman and Breakiron were present at the fight, and in the "crowd" with Carson, but Munn did not appear that either of them came in contact with Munn, excepting Hershman, who it was stated kicked him while down in the street with Carson. Munn was cut in the left side, about two inches above the heart, and for some days his life was despaired of. Breakiron testified that he saw, about the time Munn cried out that he was cut, Carson quite near him, and strike at him. He believed it was Carson, from his position and movement, that did the cutting. He had understood Carson was endeavoring to fasten the stabbing upon him, and he (Breakiron) had made a statement under oath, before an Alderman, in the jail office, with a view of clearing himself by telling who did the stabbing, although he did not know at the time of making his statement that he would be "required."
For the defense Evan Jones testified that Munn, soon after the stabbing, had pointed out Breakiron as the guilty party, and was so positive as to this belief that he said he was willing to be qualified Breakiron was the man who cut him, and insisted upon his arrest. The prosecutor (Munn) admitted in his examination that he had so charged Breakiron, but gave as a reason for so doing that he was desirous of ascertaining the name of Carson, whom he knew as having ridden on his wagon several times to and from the city; he also knew that Carson and Breakiron were associates.
W. C. Moreland, Esq., addressed the jury, and argued that to convict the defendants as charged they must believe their intention was to kill. If the circumstances, the previous quarrel, &c., were taken into consideration, and it was believed that Carson did the cutting under excitement, the verdict, under the latter clause of the section in the penal code, might be guilty of unlawful stabbing and wounding. But to convict Decker at all the jury must believe he knew of Carson's intention to use the knife. Munn was in the employ of a Birmingham glass firm, as teamster.]
Mr. Kirkpatrick argued that if Carson had cut Munn in the midst of the scuffle, there might have been some excuse for him. But, assassin-like, after the fight, his coward heart induced him to strike the blow from behind, and then to flee in the darkness. He might thank God that he was not now on trial for his life. From the manner in which the blow was given, there could see no doubt that the intention was that of an assassin. As to Decker Mr. K. did not press a conviction, as he did not think the evidence would justify it. After the cutting Decker said he knew who did it, but would not tell; but this is indefinite, and nothing more than that he did not act the part of a good citizen, and that he had been in a bad crowd.
Judge Mellon said there was no difficulty in the case as to the law, and if the jury believed Carson did the stabbing, and that he was not done under the circumstances claimed by the Commonwealth, the verdict should be guilty as indicted. The jury found Carson guilty, and acquitted Decker. Carson was remanded for sentence.
HIGHWAY ROBBERY—SPEEDY JUSTICE.
The next case taken up was that of John Sinclair and Jacob Porter, indicted for highway robbery, committed on Duquesne Way, in the city, during Monday night. The prosecutor was James H. Brown, of Franklin, Venango county. The grand jury returned a true bill at one o'clock. Mr. Brown came to the city on Saturday morning. On Monday night, between twelve and one o'clock, having some business, he went to the Scott House, on Duquesne Way, went into the bar; the bar keeper was just closing, and he was asked to open up. The prisoners came in and were asked by Brown to drink with him. Started out, Brown stating that he must go to his boarding house, the Red Lion Hotel. Prisoners followed, one paying he was going to his boat. Passed along Duquesne Way, and when opposite Barker's alley, at the brewery, near St. Clair street, Brown was knocked down and robbed of fifty-seven dollars in national currency. He identified the prisoners. The police came to his assistance, attracted by his shouts of "murder," and arrested one of the accused on the spot, Brown having seized hold of him, and the police having arrested him with unusual promptitude. Officer Buchanan, of the "emergency," was the first of the police who came up. Brown pointed out one of the men, Sinclair, who he said had robbed him, and said the other had escaped. Five or six men were standing around several "night soilers," and there was considerable excitement. The other of the accused, Pender, was arrested from the steamboat Dick Fulton, in a bunk, between one and two o'clock, and in his possession was found a hat belonging to Brown, which he had purchased on Monday evening. At the time of the occurrence, officer Buchanan, in company with officer McMullen, were on a beat on Duquesne Way, and hearing the cries, they heard Brown's cries of "murder." The money taken from Brown was not recovered.
Mr. Cohen for the defense, thought the welfare and safety of society depended upon speedy justice being administered to offenders. In this case he did not think the accused would suffer injustly by their speedy arraignment and before they had time to prepare for trial. Doubts could not but exist as to their guilt from the testimony offered, particularly as to Sinclair, who did not run away, but remained to be pointed out by the prosecutor. The jury were not to convict from their impressions, but upon legal evidence. Mr. Taylor, also for the defense, endeavored to create a "reasonable doubt" of guilt in the minds of the jury, considering the evidence as entirely circumstantial. The fact itself, that the accused were put on trial within twelve hours after the crime, should weigh strongly in their favor. Pender had been arrested on a steamboat, and identified in the misdemeanor or excitement of the moment. He had not been afforded opportunity to procure witnesses to show his whereabouts.
District Attorney Duff did not see how the jury could doubt the guilt of the prisoners. The prosecutor's evidence bore the impress of truth, and was all-sufficient; but it was corroborated. There was nothing in the circumstance that Sinclair did not run away, for he had no time to run, and had been held for some minutes by Brown. In regard to Pender, the hat found with him put all doubt at rest. The accused having been in company with Brown previously, he had sufficient knowledge of their appearance to identify them. The Court said the fact of the speedy trial was important, but with it the jury had nothing to do. It might be considered by the Court after trial. Although the jury might convict, it would not be supposed the Court would order the execution of the prisoners at least until the verdict was fairly recorded.
The jury convicted without leaving the box, and sentence was deferred until Saturday.
THE GRAND JURY
Returned but one indictment yesterday, that against the highway robbers, whose trial is reported above.

The Denists and Vulcanite—Injunction Ordered.
Some time ago (in January) suits were brought in the United States Court by the Goodyear Dental Vulcanite Company, of Boston, against Drs. Scott, Spencer and Greenwalt, dentists of this city, for infringing the Goodyear and Cumming's patents, by the use of hard rubber for upper plates. These suits having been decided in favor of the company, the dentists of Western Pennsylvania generally settled on the terms offered by the company. Two, however, George J. Luce, of Titusville, and Aaron B. Robbins, of Meadville, refused, and suits have been instituted against them.
A motion for preliminary injunctions was made by Wm. Bakewell, Esq., the company's, Attorney in the U. S. Circuit Court, which Judge McCandless heard yesterday. Mr. Slagle appearing for the Dentists. After argument, injunctions were issued restraining the defendants from further alleged infringement till the final hearing.

The United States Court Apartments

Petition in Bankruptcy.—In the United States District Court, the petition of Martin W. Feely, grocer of this city, to be allowed to avail himself of the Bankrupt law, has been presented, and ordered to be filed.

A Generous Deed.
Some two months ago Mr. James Bell, occupying a position in the Cleveland and Pittsburgh Railroad office in this city, was suddenly disabled by a stroke of paralysis. Possessing nothing beyond his earnings, and having a wife and four children dependant upon his exertions, the prospect has been sad enough to a gentleman of keen sensibilities. Three young men in the same office, John A. Musgrave, Root. Montgomery and Henry M'Cracken, confronted and collected means for his relief, and on Saturday last the comfortable sum of two hundred and ninety-five dollars was handed to their fellow clerk, as a temporary assistance. Mr. Bell being permanently disabled, it is further designed by those thoughtful and worthy young gentlemen to arrange at once for sending the sufferer, with his family, to their native places in Ireland, where his relatives are in circumstances to afford him the permanent support required by his helpless condition.

Fell Over a Precipice.
A man named Donahue, while passing along the face of Boyd's Hill, opposite Shingiss street, in the Eighth ward, yesterday forenoon, was attacked by a dog, and in endeavoring to avoid the animal he stepped backward and fell over a precipice, facturing his skull, also one shoulder blade, dislocating the other. Mr. Donahue is a native of Ireland, has a wife and several children, and it seems was somewhat intoxicated at the time of the accident. At the point where he fell over there is an excavation, not properly guarded, as it should be, and we will not be surprised if an action for damages results out of the occurrence mentioned.

Boiler Explosion.
Saturday morning a most shocking accident occurred in the north part of Muskingum county Ohio, near Dresden, on the farm of Nelson McLaren. A portable sawmill blew up, killing Jonathan Parks, Geo. Bell, and a Mr. Stambaugh, and wounding a Mr. Bell, by breaking his right thigh, and bruising another gentleman, by a stick of timber hurled in the air. It is said that these men, while attending the engine, permitted it to become too hot in the morning, before a full supply of water was put in the boilers. The explosion was terrific, and was heard for miles. The earth for many rods was plowed up by the concussion.

Gold opened at 137¼, declined to 137⅛, advanced to 137⅜ and closed at 3 o'clock this afternoon at 137¼. The demand for gold comes entirely from parties going abroad and from merchants for duties and export; the market is void of any speculative feeling, and if it was not that the Government wished to keep the money market in an easy condition in order to facilitate the conversion Seven Thirties, the premium would be much lower than exists in the Treasury. Governments are very firm, and have all risen fully advanced; there is no desire to exchange Seven Thirties now for Compounds since the coupons of the latter are cut off.

The stock market is feverish; there are too many axious to realize when the market has advanced, and is closely followed by a decline. Mining shares are very dull; outsiders have been so often victimized that they are afraid to buy even under a panic. Money is firm, at high rates.

—There is more confidence in financial circles in regard to the prospects of business, for the intelligence as to the crops is of a gratifying character, general confidence is reviving, collections are easier, and the fears are subsiding as to the movements of the Treasury causing further disturbance by locking up currency and withdrawing it from circulation.

—The receipts of internal revenue thus far this month indicate that the official estimate of $25,000,000 for the month will be reached. The developments now being made regarding the manufacture of whisky, and its escape from the payment of the tax, will bring the whole subject prominently before Congress at the next meeting, when the question of raising the revenue will be greatly simplified if means are devised whereby the tax can be collected from a smaller portion of the whisky that is manufactured. The general effect of the last public debt statement seems to have been to reassure the public mind.

—On the winding up of the State bank currency system, the Financial Chronicle has the following observations:

"It is not generally known that the notes of New England State banks are now at a discount of 5 per cent. The reason of this heavy depreciation is that at Boston the Suffolk Bank and the Bank of Mutual Redemption have discontinued redeeming such notes since the first of June. As the amount outstanding is small, and there is now no method of getting payment without sending the notes to the several banks by express, or by express to the uncurrent money brokers make the extra charge to cover the delay, expense and trouble involved. The notes of the banks of Pennsylvania and those of the Western States are selling at various rates of discount, while those of the State of New York will probably cease to circulate in a few months by the Metropolitan Bank of this city, and will then speedily disappear from circulation."

—The redemption of the eight millions of compound notes is quite likely to place the banks in a worse condition than at present, for as the treasury will pay a portion in bank currency, the operation is likely to result in a reduction of their legal-tender reserves. It is doubtful, indeed, whether the banks will surrender their compounds before the making up of their July statements, for by presenting the notes for redemption they may find that they have exchanged legal tenders for bank currency. The payment of the June interest on Seven Thirties is the only relief which can be certainly anticipated for the month; while, on the other side of the account, there will be large payments into the Treasury on account of income tax, and probably a flow of currency westward for the purchase of the wool crop. After the middle of the month, the deranging process of preparation for the quarterly statements of the banks will make itself felt in the withdrawal of a few millions of deposit by the interior banks—a movement which last April produced an extreme stringency in the market. It is stated, we know not upon what authority, that important requisitions were allowed to stand over to June, in order to assist a large July and August sale, at 12½. The arrivals being light and stocks of spot oil pretty well reduced tends to stiffen the price for immediate deliveries, and parties who have sold ahead are anxious to secure enough to fill their contracts, especially as navigation is virtually suspended. We have no quotations from Oil City to-day.

REFINED—There was but a little inquiry for bonded oil to-day, and while the market is dull and unsettled, prices are nominally unchanged. We can report a sale of 2000 barrels standard white, 1000 each for September, October and November, at 28½; 2000 bbls, 500 each for July, August, September, October, November and December, at 26c, and 500 for all year 1867, buyer's option, at 27c. Spot oil may be quoted at 27½c for prime light straw to white, and 22½c for standard white.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, }
TUESDAY, June 11, 1867. }

The general markets present no new characteristics worthy of special notice. There is no improvement to note in the demand for any of the leading commodities, and while prices, generally, have undergone no material change, the tendency still continues downward, and both dealers and consumers continue to restrict their purchases to the lowest possible limit, the policy being to keep down stocks as much as possible.

GRAIN—There is no movement in Wheat, and there is little or nothing doing in Rye or Barley. Rye is held at $1,40 to $1,45, but there are but very few, if any, buyers at present. Oats dull but unchanged, may be quoted at 68@66c, on track and wharf, and 70@72c for small lots in store. Corn is dull and neglected; prime shelled may be quoted at 86@90.

FLOUR—There is no improvement to note in the demand, and while the market is dull and unsettled, prices are nominally unchanged. We continue to quote at $12@12,50 for Spring Wheat; and $13,5 @14 for Winter Wheat. Sale of 100 bbls Clipper Mills (Dayton)—on Monday—at $14; and 100 bbls, same brand to-day, at $13¾. Rye Flour nominal at $9.

PROVISIONS—Bacon is quiet and unchanged—sales of 7000 pounds Shoulders at 9½; 5000 do Rimed Sides at 11½, and 12,000 do Canvassed Sugar Cured Hams at 16¾@16c. Lard is quoted at 13c; Dried Beef at 23c@24c for plain and canvassed, and Mess Pork at $22,50@23.

LARD OIL—F. Sellers & Co. report sales of No. 2 at 82@85c, and No. 1 at $1,00@1,06. Demand fair and stocks light.

POTATOES—The demand is fair and market reported steady at $1,35@1,40 per bush for prime Peach Blows.

EGGS—In good demand, scarce and higher—fresh packed sold readily to-day at 22c@23c per dozen.

CHEESE—Is quiet and unchanged; regular sales at 14c for Western Reserve, and 15@16c for Hamburg.

BUTTER—There is no improvement to note in the demand, and the market is exceedingly dull, and prices are nominal at 12@13c for fresh packed, and 16@17c for fresh Roll.

HAY—Is dull, with a drooping tendency; may be quoted at $20@25 for good to strictly prime Timothy.

DRIED FRUIT—Continues very dull, and material concessions would have to be made in order to effect round lot sales. We quote in a retail way at 6@7c for Apples, and 10@12c for Peaches.

ALLEGHENY CATTLE MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, }
TUESDAY, June 11, 1867. }

CATTLE.

The market this week, notwithstanding the supply was not unusually large, was the hardest one of the season, at least so said all the drovers, and they ought to know. Compared with last week, prices ruled from ¾ to 1 cent per pound lower, and even at the reduction, the demand was light and the market lifeless, tame and depressed, and several car loads were left over unsold. The quality of the cattle on sale was much poorer than it has been for some time, a large number of poor thin cows and heifers and rough and bony steers, had a tendency, as always is the case in a hard market, to hurt the sale and lower the price of good cattle. The best retailing grades sold at from 9 to 9¾c, and very good cattle, which last week would have brought the prices just quoted, sold this week at 8 to 8½c. Common and inferior cattle sold all the way from 4 to 7c.

REPORTED SALES OF CATTLE.

L. Rothchild retailed 20 head at 7½ to 8½; Kraus & Haas, 45 head at 7¾ to 8¾; James Martin wholesaled 32 head of fairish Ohio steers, averaging 1150, to Carr & McAllister, at 8¾. Doud & Co. wholesaled 18 head of good Iowa steers to Hazlewood & Blackstock, at 8¾; Marks & Trautman retailed 67 head at 7½ to 9¾. Hazlewood & Blackstock, 32 head at 5 to 9¾. Carr & McAllister, 51 head at 8 to 9½. L. Shamberg, 20 head Texas cattle at 5¾ to 8—9 left over. Verner & Hartman, 18 head at 6¾ to 7¾; 8 left over. Bloom & Bro., 8 head at 8¾. J. Shamberg, 8 head at 6 to 7½. Greenwald & Kahn, 67 head at 7 to 9¾. Lafferty & Glass, 40 head—20 head left over. Myers & Needy wholesaled 32 head of prime heavy steers to Barney Grey at 9¾—retailed 20 head. Hudson, 13; Hanlon, 9, and Jackson, 11.

HOGS.

The warm weather does not appear to improve the retail demand for Hogs, while wholesaleing, at these yards, is entirely out of the question at this season of the year. This being the case, there is little or nothing doing in this class of stock, and we continue to quote, in a retail way, at 6½ to 7¼c, gross, for fair to good heavy averages.

SHEEP.

We were unable to find out much about the Sheep business, further than the supply was a little larger than usual, and the market ruled dull. Prime fat mutton Sheep may be quoted at 6 to 6½c gross, in a retail way. Lambs plenty and dull at $2 to $4 per head, according to size and condition.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, }
TUESDAY, June 11, 1867. }

CRUDE—The market was again moderately active to-day, the reported sales reaching about ten thousand barrels, but prices have undergone no quotable change. Sale of 800 bbls, spot, at 6½; 300 do do, at 6¾; 900 (43 gravity) at 7; 3000 bbls to be delivered between the 11th of June, 1867, and the 31st of December, 1868, buyer's option, at 5 and 6 cents below the time delivery and rate, at 12½. The arrivals being light and stocks of spot oil pretty well reduced tends to stiffen the price for immediate deliveries, and parties who have sold ahead are anxious to secure enough to fill their contracts, especially as navigation is virtually suspended. We have no quotations from Oil City to-day.

REFINED—There was but a little inquiry for bonded oil to-day, and while the market is dull and unsettled, prices are nominally unchanged. We can report a sale of 2000 barrels standard white, 1000 each for September, October and November, at 28½; 2000 bbls, 500 each for July, August, September, October, November and December, at 26c, and 500 for all year 1867, buyer's option, at 27c.
